

QUEEN OF AMERICAN COURTS and this country's hope against the invading Mlle. Lenglen — Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national woman tennis champion and winner of the recent Seabright tourney, where she defeated Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, in the singles finals by the score of 8-6, 6-3. Mrs. Mallory's victory proved she was the most logical opponent among American players to meet the French marvel on the courts at Forest Hills in the national championships completed yesterday. Levick

FOXTROTS WITH PRINCESS. Dennis Taylor, a London clerk, who danced with Princess Mary, unaware of her identity. Dennis, attending a social center in London's East Side, espied the Prince of Wales' sister enter and so just up and asked her to dance. Now Dennis' old hat is altogether too small. Kadel & Herbert

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM. President Harding's father, Dr. Harding, is seventy-six years of age, associated with him for many years as a nurse, is fifty-two, some, simply unbearably lonesome.

MLLE. SUZANNE LENGLEN, the spectacular French marvel of the courts, who arrived in this country last week with the avowed purpose of proving beyond all doubt that she is the world's greatest woman tennis player—from a painting by Elsie Southwick Clark, American portrait painter, which is now on exhibition in New York. *F. Right — MEET SNOOKY, the trained chimpanzee of Venice, California, all dolled up in her latest style embroidered bathing suit, a perfect 36, and ready to compete in the bathing girls' annual contest to be held at this famous Pacific Coast resort this week. International

Right — ON A CALIFORNIA GOAT FARM. Miss Elizabeth Brickdale, of San Francisco, feeding part of her prize herd of thirty imported Swiss Toggenburgs which she has been raising and breeding for the past eight years. The Bills and Nans are worth $5,000 apiece and a quart of fresh goat milk from Mrs. Brickdale's herd would cost you just eighty cents. Keystone

THEY JUST HAD TO group of British merrymakers, fashionable bathing house same, they have solved the problem and toast served aboard the folks along our Atlantic.

Left, below — MISS HELEN ROE at the helm of F. C. Smith's Redwing, in which she won the bird class in last Saturday's races of the Bayside Yacht Club for women skippers. Miss Roe won the eight-mile race by over seven minutes, Miss Iris Freer in the Heron finishing second. Levick
